Welcome!

The ALCTS Exchange is a celebration of excellence at the intersections of libraries, collection management, acquisitions, metadata and cataloging, preservation, and technology. This fully online event will offer synchronous and asynchronous opportunities for learning and engagement. Participants from diverse areas of librarianship will find the four days of presentations, panels, and activities both thought-provoking and highly relevant to their current and future career paths. The ALCTS Exchange will engage a wide-range of presenters and participants, facilitating enriching conversations and learning opportunities. Everyone, including non-ALCTS members, are encouraged to register and bring their questions, experiences, and perspectives to the events.

Speaker(s)

- Liz Woolcott, Head of Cataloging and Metadata Services, Merrill-Cazier Library, Utah State University

Liz Woolcott is the Head of Cataloging and Metadata Services for Utah State University Libraries. She has worked in cataloging and metadata coordination for 13 years. She currently serves as the Vice Chair of the ALCTS Metadata Interest Group and is the co-founder of the Library Workflow Exchange. She holds an MA in History and an MLS from the University of North Texas. Her research interests include workflow analysis, project management, and impact assessment.

- Jeremy Myntti, Head of Digital Library Services, J. Willard Marriott Library, University of Utah

Jeremy Myntti is Head of Digital Library Services at the University of Utah Marriott Library. This position allows him the opportunity to work closely with those in the library converting material from analog to digital, creating and maintaining the metadata for our collections, and preserving our digital assets. In addition to serving on several ALCTS committees, he will assume the position of President of OLAC after ALA Annual this coming summer.
